Dear Proceedings Contributor:

The instructions for submitting manuscripts for publication in the 23rd International Congress of Lymphology Proceedings to be published as a supplement to the journal Lymphology are printed below. The deadline for submitting manuscripts is December 31, 2011. Articles must be submitted via e-mail to hakan.brorson@med.lu.se or submitted on CD or diskette with one printed copy to the address below. All manuscripts must have been presented at the Congress either in poster or oral format.

In addition, in accordance to a motion passed by the General Assembly at the 15th International Congress of Lymphology, A COPY OF THE PROCEEDINGS MUST BE PRE-PAID IN ORDER FOR YOUR MANUSCRIPT(S) TO BE PUBLISHED.

Articles are accepted for publication on the condition that they are contributed to the 23rd International Congress of Lymphology Proceedings only and that no substantial part has been or will be published elsewhere. The general style of the manuscript should be in accordance with Lymphology and the Style Manual for Biological Journals, 2nd Ed., published by the American Institute of Biological Sciences, 2000 P Street, N.W., Washington, DC, USA, 20036.

Form and Style

4-page manuscripts should be submitted as an e-mail attachment (Microsoft Word) and e-mailed to hakan.brorson@med.lu.se. E-mail, print mail address, and telephone and fax numbers also should be included in the text of the e-mail as well as in the attachment.

THE FIRST LINE OF THE MANUSCRIPT SHOULD PRESENT THE TITLE OF THE PAPER

The second line should contain the name of author(s), with first and middle initial.

The third line should contain the name of the department and institution in which the work was done.

References:

References should be numbered consecutively as they appear in the text and names of up to three authors are requested after which "et al" is preferred.

Sample arrangement:

Article: Miller, RA, OH Smith: Lymphocyte function. New Engl. J. Med. 253 (1965), 72.

Book: Allen, EV, NW Barker, EW Hines: Peripheral Vascular Disease. Saunders, Philadelphia, 1955.

Footnotes:

Footnotes should be avoided. Please group footnotes together at the end of your manuscript before the reference section or incorporate the information in the text material itself.

Abbreviations:

Standard abbreviations should be used consistently. Unusual or coined abbreviations should be spelled out the first time in the text with the abbreviation following in parenthesis.

TABLES AND ILLUSTRATIONS

Tables and illustrations should be embedded throughout the text, preferably being included on the same page where they are first discussed. They should have a self-contained caption.

Tables:

Tables should be included in the text and numbered with Arabic (not Roman) numerals. A brief title should follow the table number. All unusual units of measurement, acronyms and abbreviations should be explained in a legend at the bottom of the table.

Photographs/line drawings:

Responsibility for obtaining prior permission in writing for reproduction of illustrations, or any other material, taken from published works is assumed by the author. A copy of the permission should accompany your manuscript. Black and white images (photographs, line drawings, graphs etc.) should be embedded in the text, preferable on the same page where they are first discussed.

If manuscript CANNOT be sent by e-mail, please mail manuscript, tables, and illustrations on a CD or diskette as well as ONE printed copy of the manuscript to:
